

Annual Flying Star Chart for 2010

2010 is a Metal Tiger year. The following chart, in the Traditional Luo Shu pattern shows the location of the annual stars for the 2010 year.

South

7	3	5
6	8	1
2	4	9

North

Adding a wind chime in the Northeast is the most common practice for balancing this energy.

Adding a dish/bucket of water in the Southwest is a common enhancement for balancing this energy. It is best to place it outdoors, near a window, in a yellow, brown or metal container.

Note: As each property has its own Star energy as well as the energy of the individual occupants, balancing annual stars alone is not a complete enhancement of the space.
